"Rube" Waddell, who was batted all over the lot when he last appeared here, was mainly responsible for the second defeat of the series administered to the Cardinals at the hands of the Remnants yesterday.

Waddell had speed to burn and all kinds of control. The Donovanites, try as they would, could gather but six safeties from his delivery, and these were not well enough grouped after the third inning to give the locals a run. Waddell was in great form. He gave only one base on balls, struck out four men at critical stages of the game, and gleaned two of the Chicago runs by his home-run drive in the fourth inning. More Hard Luck for Heidrick.

The locals played in their usual hard luck. Emmett Heidrick stiently suffered the rooters to launch numerous jeers at him for poor work in the field. As a matter of fact, Heidrick should have been on the bench. He has been forced to retire so many times that he feared he would gain the unpleasant notoriety of being a quitter, and so he samely entered the fray yesterday when gamely entered the fray yesterday when another man should have been in the center suburb. Handicapped as he was Heidrick could not do himself justice. In the third inning Green smashed out a triple, scoring Hartsel. Heidrick, with his "Charley horse" hindering him made a same try for the hindering him, made a game try for the ball, but could not field it in time to pre-vent the score. In the eighth, McCormick dropped a Texas leaguer out to center. Heidrick could not make the run in time to get under the ball, and when it struck a bad bound sent the ball over Heidrick's head, allowing Green to expand to third. The Remnants were quick to perceive the weak spot, and Waddell made the entire circuit on a hit which Heidrick ordinarily circuit on a hit which Heidrick ordinarily would have smothered.

Up to twenty minutes before play was called, it looked as if the game would have to be postponed on account of the rain. A steady drizzle set in before 2 o'clock and gave the grounds a good wetting. The rain ceased just after the second gong rang and it was decided to play out the game. The grounds were sticky and the wet grass was another handicap, but, considering the state of the diamond, the misplays were but few indeed.

Waddell is Steady.

Waddell In Steady. In the second inning the Cardinals gleaned three runs and in the remaining rounds drew blank after blank. The small crowd fervently prayed that Waddell would go ballooning, and it looked for a time as if he would, but after the second inning he twirled a superfine article of ball.

he twirled a superfine article of ball.

Kruger started the hitting which ended in runs. He smashed the ball far over to the extreme left field and annexed two bases on the deal. Dick Padden followed with a neat sacrifice. McGann made good by lacing out a triple to right, scoring Kruger. A moment later Sir William Schriver banged the ball out to center for two bases. Such hits, by the way, are beginning to be a regular thing with Schriver lately. McGann came in, pulled down to ginning to be a regular thing with Schriver lately. McGann came in, pulled down to a walk, on Schriver's hit. Sudhoff drew a base on balls, the only one given by Waddel during the game. Burkett rapped smartly at Raymer, and, while the latter was doing some fancy juggling with the ball, Schriver crossed the pan, Burkett camping safe on the initial sack. Burkett explication, second when Meddelich kett expired on second when Heidrick struck out.

The Remnants promptly came to the The Remnants promptly came to the mark in the next inning. Waddell pawed the air three times in vain, but "Topsy" Hartsel secured a nice bingle. Green followed this with a triple to right and Hartsel scored on the deal. Dexter hit to Kruger who fumbled just long enough for Green to duck home. It might have been an out, but Green collided with Schriver and the latter dropped the ball. Sudhoff bent to his task and cut off further scoring by famning Doyle and Haymer. In the following round Petic Childs, the ex-Cardinal, walked and when Waddell smote the ball for his homer. Childs was driven in like a flock of sheep before the shepherd. Until the eighth inning both sides drew blanks. In the seventh the Orphans came near sending a run over the pan. With two men out Danny Green drov a hit to right that netted him three bases, Dexter filed to Heidrick for the third out and Green expired.

Heidrick for the third out and Green expired.

After that the Cardinals went out in A-B-C order in all except the eighth inning, when Heidrick's hit prolonged the batting until Donovan and Wallace made easy outs, Jack Doyle started the eighth heat for the Remnants with a single to left. Raymer grounded to Fadden, who forced Doyle at second and tried hard to double Raymer at first. Hank O'Day, however, called the latter safe. Childs got his third free pass to first. Barry McCormick was prevented from annexing a run on Kahoe's foul to Kruger and Waddell's out, Kruger to McGaun.

Pretty Double Play.

In the Chicago half of the ninth inning, a neat double play prevented still further scoring on the part of the Chicogans. Hartsel walked, and, trusting to his fleet legs, tried to pilfer the third pillow on Green's sacrifice, which took the form of a grounder to Kruger. Otto executed a near throw to first, nipping Green. All the while Hartsel was plowing the ground between second and thirl. McGann made a quick return to Kruger, but the throw went a little wild and Kruger had to play off the sack fully two feet to secure it. By a quick turn he put the ball on Hartsel just a second before the latter reached the plate. It was a neat plece of work, and McGann and Kruger got their full share of applause. The locals could do nothing in their final round. Kruger fouled to Kahoe, Padden grounded to McCormick and was thrown out at first, McGann's soarer lit on a sheet of Green fly-paper. The score:

Sudhoff and Harper Receive Gifts From the Players. That harmony prevalls among the Cardinals was manifest yesterday in a little scene in the second laning of yesterday's game. Sudhoff had just walked up to face Waddell, when there was a stir and commotion among the St. Louis players on the bench. A second later Jack Powell walked briskly up to the plate resolves before him a year. up to the plate, pushing before him a ver-itable "dream" of a baby carriage. Sud-hoff was more rattled than he was at any stage of the game, either before or after the episode, but Powell gave him no chance to escare.

stage of the game, either before or after the episode, but Powell gave him no chance to escape.

The Infant phacton was a bright-wheeled conveyance, with a pretty white wicker body trimmed in gold. A cream silk sunshade threw a shadow over a mysterious package concealed in the bed of the carriage. The Cardinals gathered about "Wee Willie" with bared heads while Emmet Heidrick briefly delivered the goods with a few appropriate remarks, to which Sudhoff responded when he recovered from his astonishment.

The mysterious package was brought to light, and when the fastenings were loosened another victim was snared. This time it was Jack Harper's turn to blush. The young Benedict pitcher was one of the crowd of players which surrounded Sudhoff, and his agitation was apparent when Heidrick thrust the package in his hands. Inside was a beautiful set of table silver, which reminded the crowd that Harper was a newly married man. Heidrick officiated as before, and Harper, in a few words, thanked his comrades for the gift.

In the grand stand sat Mrs. Sudhoff and Master Sudhoff, who is something under a month old. Perhaps Mrs. Sudhoff was the was informed of the nature of the golings-on at the plate. She blushed red, but Master Sudhoff was not disturbed a little bit.

The raw day kept Mrs. Harper away from the game for the first time since she made her debut as an enthueiast, but after the tilt was over "Jack" was observed making tracks for home with the package reposing tracks for home with the package reports under his arm.

Even "Rube" Waddell was agitated by this example of brotherly love, and, not to be outdone, participated in the gift by presenting a free pass to first base to Sudhoff.

LAST GAME WITH CHICAGO TO-DAY.

roundly applicated for it.

Despite adverse criticism by some, the conviction has forced itself upon local followers that Otto Kruger is not only a comer. but that he has already arrived. Kruger's work with the willow has been consistent, especially in the last week, when the rest of the team has been more or less impotent with the ash. Kruger gained the first hit off Waddell's delivery yesterday. In the ninth inning he unfortunately popped up a high foul to Kahoe, but the game was already past retrieving, unless, indeed, the Remnants would have thrown it away. Another time Kruger laced out a long hit to left field, which Hartsel captured after he had nearly run his legs off. Totals 50 4 27 12 4 Totals 28 4 27 29 0 he had nearly run his legs off.

The error charged to Schriver was the result of a bad throw to second, which can readily be excused, in view of the good work that Schriver has done in cutting off expanders at second. The throw was made in the third inning, when, with one man out. Dexter hit to Kruger, who could not field the ball in time to nip Dexter. Green scored and Dexter made a bluff at second, when Doyle went to bat. Scriver three there is not better the ball went low, striking Padden's shoe and bounding off to left. Dexter went on to third base, but get no further, as Doyle and Raymer were fanned out.

Joe Quinn, who has long been a prominent figure in baseball, especially in St. Louis, has been released by the Washington club of the American League at his own request. Joe returned to St. Louis a few weeks ago to recuperate from injuries received in a game. Joe is one of the most conscientious players who ever graced a uniform, and was always popular in St. Louis, where he has a large following. He has played ball ever since he was knee high to a grasshopper. His last appearance in a St. Louis uniform was early in the season of 1990. Later, he became a member of the Cincinnati team. The Cincinnati club had no reserve clause in its contract with Quinn, and this season he signed with the Senators. Joe says he is feeling fine and dandy and is in good shape for anything. Just now he is attending to business interests in North St. Louis.

Yesterday's sames in the National League all weighed against the chances of the Cardinals for a finish high up in the percentage column. Pittsburg still, displays winning form and won handlily from Cincinnati. Philadelphia regalized its old footing and drew far ahead of the Donovanites by annexing both games of a double-header from the Beancaters, while Brooklyn is now feeling for third place. Yesterday the Hanlonites took two games from the Glants, and St. Louis by dropping another to Chicago, allowed the Brooklynites to come within striking distance.

Specific Blood Poison.

My special form of treatment for specific or contagious poison in the blood is practically the result of my life work, and is indorsed by the best physicians of this and foreign countries.

It contains no dangerous drugs or injurious medicines of any kind.

It goes to the very bottom of the disease and forces out every particle of impurity. Soon every sign and symptom disappear completely and forever.

The blood, the tissue, the fiesh, the hence and the whole system are cleansel, purified and restored to perfect health and the patient prepared anew for the duties and pleasures of life.

Nervo-Sexual Debility.

My cure for weak men does not stimulate temporarily, but restores permanently. It soon drives away all those distressing symptoms which so constantly remind one of his former folly.

It stops every drain of vigor and builds up the muscular and rervous system, purifies and enriches the blood, cleanses and heals the bladder and kidneys, invigorates the liver, revives the spirits, brightens the intellect, and, above and beyond all, restores the wasted power of sexual manhood.

DOCTOR COOK.

This has been the bappy experience of legions of men whom we have recently cured for life of Varicocele. Stricture. Specific Blood Poison. Nervous Debility and associate or reflex diseases.

In the treatment of cases of this character our success has been called "phenomenal." but it is only natural and what should be expected from a physician who possesses special knowledge, expert skill, vast experience, thorough scientific equipments, and an carnest, industrious mind, conscientiously devoted to the welfare of a patient.

Varicocele.

Under my treatment, which includes po-cutting or pain, this insidious disease rap-idly disappears.

Pain ceases almost instantly.

The pools of stagnant blood are driven from the dilated veins, and all soreness and swelling quickly subside.

Every indication of Varicoccle soon van-ishes, and in its stead come the pride, the power and the pleasure of perfect health and restored manhood.

Many allments are reflex originating from other diseases.

For instance, sexual weakness sometimes comes from Varicocele or Stricture, innumerable blood and bone diseases often result from blood poison taint in the system, or physical and mental decline frequently follow impotency,

In treating diseases of any kind I always cure the effect as well as the cause.
